

OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR TRACK TEAM

Ward Schedule Has Been Arranged for the Athletes of Carolina.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Chapel Hill, N. C., Feb. 12.—The track coach, Nat. J. Carter, will begin his work with his last year's team in the spring. He will begin with the exception of Captain Williams, whose event was the high jump. He has to replace Williams, Graham, who has shown improvement during the winter over his work last year, and Gordon, half-back on Lehigh University football team for 1909. Captain-elect, Ruffin, will work in the hurdle events and probably in the shot-put. Hoffman, a half-miler whom Cartmell developed last year from a man with no experience whatever, claims the Southern amateur championship for the half-mile on the time made against Washington and Lee last spring, 2:02 1-5. Winston, captain-elect of the 1911 football team, has a ten-second record over 100 yards. Although the hammer-throw is regarded as a sure point winner.

But with his old squad back, Cartmell is making a big effort to get out a lot of new men. He has no idea of taking the risk of letting them get over-confident and slow. He is going to make the competition as hard as possible.

The schedule by far the fastest arranged for a Carolina team in recent years. The season opens with either Clemson or Davidson on their own grounds. Washington and Lee, who was beaten in Chapel Hill last spring, will be met at Lexington, April 8. For the first time in several years the Carolina track men will compete with representatives of the Orange and Black. The event will be the Southern intercollegiate meet at Charlottesville, Va., to which Carolina will send the pick of their team. For the first time in the history of athletic relations between Carolina and Virginia Polytechnic, the Tech track team will come to Chapel Hill. Last year in the meet held at Blacksburg, Carolina won more first places than the Tech, but lost in points, having fewer entries. Carolina will not have this drawback to contend with on her own track. The date is April 29.

An invitation has been received from the University of Pennsylvania to enter a team in the races that will be run at the seventh annual intercollegiate and interscholastic, April 29. Carolina is classed, among others, with Virginia, Georgetown, Amherst, and Carlisle. Cartmell, who is an old Pennsylvania man, is anxious to send a relay team to this meet. It is doubtful if finances will permit the trip.

An attempt will be made to arrange an intrastate meet in Raleigh for Easter Monday.

PROF. J. B. ROCHE

who came to interest the people of Richmond in the subject of physical culture, has been quite successful. He has interviewed a large number of the leading people of the city, and they have taken an active interest in the subject. Prof. Roche can be seen at Murphy's Hotel, or Phone Madison 6550. Classes will open for practice Monday.

Class hours for men, 1:30 to 2:30 P. M.; 5 to 6, and 7:30 to 9 P. M.

The following gentlemen, who are well-known citizens of Richmond, have joined the class: H. D. Elcheberger, Oliver J. Sands, Waller Holladay, D. R. Midyette, Henry Fleckenheimer, T. S. Winston, and many others.

From United States Senator William Allen Smith:

To the Public:—I desire to recommend to your favorable attention Prof. J. B. Roche, a skillful and splendid representative of the art of physical culture. He comes to your community for the purpose of interesting the public in his work. He is an upright, honorable, and energetic man, one whom you can rely on. And I lay my good health to the Roche system of physical culture.

Respectfully, WM. ALDEN SMITH.

To Be Sick and Weak Is a Crime

From C. W. Geo. Everhart, President Chalmers Co.:

To Whom It May Concern: Oshkosh, Nov. 5, 1910.

The bearer, Prof. J. B. Roche, is a physician-director right. I have had some trouble with my heart, which I have suffered from for some time. Since I have taken up Prof. Roche's system of hygienic instruction I feel like a new man. My heart and circulation is good, and I have reduced my abdomen five inches and weight 14 pounds in three weeks, and never felt so well in my life.

Respectfully, C. W. GEO. EVERHART.

Prof. J. B. Roche:

Birmingham, Ala., March 4, 1910.

Dear Sir:—I will take pleasure in recommending your treatment and lessons to all in need of such that I come in contact with. I have suffered from constipation and stomach trouble, in a very aggravated form, for ten years and have tried many remedies. Have spent two weeks in French Lick, Indiana, and a longer time in Cuba taking rest, but your treatment has given me more real benefit than anything I have ever tried before, and if I follow the instructions you have given me I believe that I will once more be a well man.

With kindest regards and best wishes, I am, Yours truly, DR. G. W. BAINS.

change in the rules year after year? No such demand is or ever has been made for any other game which is in intercollegiate athletics. My answer is that it is because the game has developed in this country. It is a game which is played by the masses of the people, and it is a game which is played by the masses of the people.

There is a great deal of talk about the St. Louis Cardinals. The Cardinals are a team which is played by the masses of the people, and it is a game which is played by the masses of the people.

SULLIVAN LIKES RICHMOND TOWN

Arrived Quietly Yesterday and Visted Times-Dispatch Office to Talk a Few Lines of Baseball—Mrs. Sullivan and Daughter Accompany Him—Expects to Win Pennant.

BY GUS MALBERT.

James W. Sullivan, manager of the Richmond baseball team, arrived in Richmond yesterday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock. With him were his wife and eight-year-old daughter, completing the Sullivan household. So quietly and unobtrusively did he make his entrance that not one single soul was at the station to meet him. In fact, there was no one in Richmond who knew of his arrival. Owner Bradley, the man who was best qualified to know, didn't, and that's all there is to it.

So Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan and daughter rode to Murphy's Hotel, registered, and are now in that hostelry. For the benefit of the fans, if you happen to see a man looking tickled to death, with a twinkle in his eye and a smile on his face, with a springy step telling that he is an athlete, and with cheerfulness sticking out from every corner of his five feet ten inches of height, why—that's Sullivan.

Just to show that he is really a good fellow as well as a ball player, Sullivan came down to the office last night, and he brought his wife with him. He was tired and suffering from a cold, but not any of his ailments kept him from smiling. He extended a great hand, which caught yours in that kind of a shake which makes you like a man right from the jump.

Likes Richmond Already.

"Mighty glad to be here, and I'm going to like this town," he blurted, even before the first "get-acquainted" had been fairly spoken. "I mean every word of it. I'm going to like Richmond, I know, and I hope the people of Richmond will like me. First thing we did after getting rid of the travel stains was to walk over the new viaduct. Then we strolled all over Church Hill, and then we walked back. When we got to Murphy's the Broad Street lights began to blaze, and it was one of the prettiest sights I have ever seen."

"You know, I come from Lincoln, Neb., and out that way Omaha is our little hometown; but Omaha can't be compared to Richmond. People are coming out there every day, while people are coming to Richmond on every train. I like it and I—"

"Any baseball dope?"

"Sure, and if you can convince the name a formula. I like Sullivan all right, and I am firmly convinced that the fans of Richmond have the best manager for the ball team they have had in years. Let's wait and find out.

Story of "Jeanne d'Arc."

Nothing more wonderful, perhaps, exists in history than the torture, both mental and physical, to which the Maid of Orleans was subjected by her captors.

"Le Proce de Jeanne d'Arc" by Emile Moreau, is a new play. It is one of Mme. Bernhardt's latest triumphs, and was first produced by her at her Paris theatre in December, 1909.

The play tells of the last days in the life of Joan of Arc. The scene is a chateau. The first act is a feverish exposition in the ecclesiastical and political intrigues that hurried on the diabolical execution. The credence of witcraft is mirrored in the apprehensive eyes and reflected on the powerful, cruel faces. The regent, Bedford, is presented as one who believes in a childlike terror. Here, the author has put in the mouth of the actress the words believed to have been pronounced by Joan herself at the time of her trial.

In the second act, the trial of the martyr is enacted in a great council hall. Jeanne d'Arc is on trial for her life. As the guards part at the door, the great assemblage of bishops and nobles turn to look at her. She comes in quietly, a young, sad-eyed, graceful figure, wearing a coat of linked mail. Bewildered, frightened, indignant at the injustice of her accusers, she faces them, at first gently, then defiantly, and finally with a childish terror. Here the author has put in the mouth of the actress the words believed to have been pronounced by Joan herself at the time of her trial.

In the fourth act, the audience does not see Joan at the stake, but hears her cries of anguish and sees in the faces of her executioners all the horror of her death.

"Getting a Polish." will be presented by Madame Sarah Bernhardt at the Academy tomorrow matinee. "Camille" will be presented to-morrow night.

Among the important bookings for the Academy is Miss Irwin in "Getting a Polish," a new farce comedy by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, which is to be the attraction Friday night. This play, by the author of "The Act from Home," is of importance for no other reason than that its personal view of the popular comedienne from her determination to retire from the stage. Miss Irwin's appearance in this farce will be her first under the management of Tarkington & Wilson, who have promised her a production and a cast that will exceed in excellence any that she has enjoyed in recent years.

Yiddish Players.

The Third Street Theatre All-Star Yiddish Company, which is under the personal direction of D. Bartlesone and which is headed by the well known and popular star, Max Gabel, will appear for the first time in this city in his latest and positively greatest success, "Kol Shofer," in four acts, by Max Gabel. They will appear at the Academy Wednesday night. This play has been specially written by Mr. Gabel for his company, and is at present being presented in New York City where it is meeting with great success.

This is the eleventh season which Miss Rose Melville has been playing "Sis Hopkins," that delightful play of rural Indiana life, which comes to the Bijou Theatre to-night for one week. "Sis Hopkins" is a play which by reason of its exquisite sentiment has won a place in the hearts of theatregoers of rich and poor to remain unconquered for years to come. The story of the life and love of this odd little country girl is one of surpassing sweetness, and the sentiment is of that type which appeals to the heart and leaves pleasant memories.

EXTRA SESSION RUMORS HAVE THEM WORRIED

Senator Coffey, a number of those who believed the passage of the bill would strengthen President Taft politically have arrived at the conclusion that Democratic opposition would simply convince the Senate and House were not pulling together. The House Democrats voted for the bill almost to a man, and it was their position that made its passage certain. Administration leaders will tell President Taft to-morrow that the bill will go through.

An interesting situation exists in respect to the service pension bill. The House passed the bill to increase the present pensions to that at the age of sixty-two years the rate will be $15 a month instead of $12, and providing for other increases as follows:

At sixty-five years, from $12 to $20; at seventy years, from $15 to $25; and at seventy-five years, from $20 to $30. It is estimated that this bill would cost about $50,000,000 a year in addition to the $152,000,000 estimated for the ensuing year.

The Senate Committee on pensions will meet to-morrow, and it is said that the Sulloway bill will be reported, although there may be a minority report on a measure, which would cost the first year only about $5,000,000.

Several Senators have opposed reporting any measure at the present time on the ground that no provision has been made to provide revenues to meet the cost of such legislation. It is understood that the bill will be withdrawn until the Capitol yesterday that they had been led to do so upon intimations that even if the Sulloway bill is passed it will be vetoed by President Taft. So far as could be learned no Senator had authority to make such a statement as to the intentions of the President, but nevertheless that he would do so was generally accepted as a fact.

Committees in charge of appropriation bills have been plodding along, and although the congestion has not been relieved to any extent, there is little talk now that any of these measures is in danger.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Lynchburg, Va., February 12.—Upon recommendation by Helms Zimmerman, utility infielder for the Chicago Cubs, Manager Stockdale, of the Lynchburg Steamers, has signed Frank Clancy, who has played considerable professional ball around New York for years. Clancy is a first baseman, and in the past three years has never hit below .270. He is also highly recommended by Joe Wall, the old New York and Washington player, who says he has the earmarks of a corner.

Negro Instantly Killed.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Charlottesville, Va., February 12.—Wesley Ross, colored, for twelve years a yard boy on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, was instantly killed while on duty about 11 o'clock last night. It is presumed that his brake stick broke and that he fell between the cars. His body was found on the track shortly after the accident. Ross was a native of Wayne, La.
